REPORTING FROM INDIA: REFLECTIONS ON A DECADE WITH THE WSJ & NYT

INSTITUTE FOR SOUTH ASIA STUDIES
Invites you to a lecture by Geeta Anand, a journalist and former foreign correspondent for the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal in India. Her passion has been investigative reporting and narrative non-fiction. She was part of the team at the Wall Street Journal that won a Pulitzer Prize in 2003 for reporting on corporate corruption. She has written extensively about almost everything in India from the sudden government decision to render most of the cash in circulation worthless, and introducing readers to colorful characters like the truant officer who went after teachers who skip school. She is currently the Nirupama Chatterjee Teaching Fellow for 2018 at UC Berkeley School of Journalism.

- Thursday, February 22, 5-7 pm @ 10 Stephens Hall
- Moderator: Munis Furuqui, Director of South Asia Studies
